Chicago, Dec. 9.-The issue between the shippers of the country and the railroads, which broadly is said to be whether the plow follows the locomotive or the locomotive the plow, was joined at the annual banquet of the Illinois Manufacturers' association here. W. C. Brown, senior vice president of the New York Central lines, delivered an elaborate plea for the participation of the railroads in the country's prosperity, while Ohio C. # DISCUSSES RACE PROBLEM

Says Negro Is Essential to Industrial Progress of South and Advocates Education as Means of Correcting Evils-Advocates Laws Prescribing Qualification For Suffrage In Line With Fifteenth Amendment to Prevent Domination.

New York, Dec. .- President-elect William H. Taft was the guest of honor at the banquet of the North Carolina society of New York.

After paying a tribute to North Carolina, which he said presented an admirable type of present conditions in the south; the public spirit of its citizens: progress of its industries and the charming companionship which the northerner always found there, the speaker pointed out that the laws were made for the north and south and the functions of the government extended from the Canadian border to the Gulf of Mexico, and led up to this question: "What is it that sets the south apart and takes from the southern people the responsibilities which the members of a republic ought to share in respect to the conduct of the national government?" He continued:

"Why is it that what is done at Washington seems to be the work of the north and west, and not of the south? Should this state of affairs continue? These are the questions that force themselves on those of us concerned with the government, and who are most anxious to have a solid, united country, of whose will the course of the government shall be an intelligent interpretation and expres-

"We can not answer these questions as the historian would and we can not explain the situation as it is: but I don't think we can justify or excuse a continuance of it. Looking back into the past, of course, the explanation of the difference between the south and other two sections was in the institution of slavery. It is of no purpose to point out that early in the history of the country the north was as responsible for bringing slaves here as the south, because we are not concerned with whose fault chase of the Panama canal property ft was that there was such an institution as slavery.

Mr. Taft referred to the trials of the reconstruction period, which accentuated the trials of the past, and slow return of prosperity to the south following the civil strife, as further agencies that helped to keep alive the feeling engendered by that controversy, and quoted statistics to show the marvelous growth in the agricultural resources and manufacturing industries of the south.

Continuing, he said: "The Democratic party has not preserved inviolate its traditional doctrine as to state's rights and other issues, and has for the time adopted new doctrines of possibly doubtful economic truth and wisdom. Southern men adhering to the party and the name find themselves through the influence of tradition and the fear of restoration of conditions which are now impossible, supporting a platform and candidate whose political and economic theories they distrust. Under these conditions there was in the last campaign and there is today throughout the south, among many of its geht?" most influential citizens, an impatience, a nervousness and a restlessness in voting for one ticket and in rejoicing in the success of another.

"Now I am not one of those who are disposed to criticise or emphasize the inconsistency of the position in which these gentlemen flud themselves. I believe it would be wiser if all who sympathize with one party and its principles were to vote its ticket, but I can readily understand the weight and inertia of the tradition and social consideration that make them hesitate. I believe that the movement away from political solidity has started and ought to be encouraged, and I think one way to encourage it is to have the south understand that the attitude of the north and the Republican party toward it is not one of hostility or criticism or opposition, political or otherwise; that they believe in the maintenance of the fifteenth amendment, but that, as already explained, your husband was working down in they do not deem that amendment to the office? gards as its political safety from domination of an ignorant electorate. "We believe that the solution of the race question in the south is largely a matter of industrial and thorough education. Some southerners who have given expression to their thoughts seem to think that the only solution of the negro question such a proposition is utterly fatuous. The negro is essential to the south in order that it may have proper labor. Their ancestors were brought 60 S. Main S. here against their will. They have no country but this. They know no flag but hours. They wish to live under it and are willing to die for it. They are Americans.

"The recent election has made it probable that I shall become more or less responsible for the policy of the next presidential administration, and PENDLETON, EUEH & BUSH-I improve this opportunity to say that nothing would give me greater pride, because nothing would give me more claim to the gratitude of my fellow citizens, if I could so direct that policy in respect to the southern states as to convince its intelligent citizens of the desire of the administration to aid them in working out satisfactorily the serious problems before them and of bring ing them and their northern fellow citizens closer and closer in sympathy and point of view."

HOW LOCAL PAPERS CAN HELP

By Keeping Awake Civic Pride and Promoting Beneficial Innovations. Care to Be Exercised In Selecting Town Officials

Local papers are wonderful instruments in the progress of a town. The editor can do much more than the average citizen in keeping awake civic pride and promoting innovations that are for the good of the community. He is the former of public opinion. He can direct the thought channels along right lines if he will. He should be one of the most interested citizens in the welfare of his town. The business success of merchants and of all interested in the place is important to the local editor. His own success will be commensurate with the advancement of the general interests of the

Every farmer should be as much interested in the doings of the townspeople as the residents of the place. He is one of the supporters of its business institutions, its schools and its public institutions in general, and he should feel that the interests of the towns people are his own interests. Too often just the opposite feelings are manifest. The farmers look upon the residents of the towns as enemies, the merchants as bloodsuckers and a class that live off the farmers. Attractiveness In Trade Needed to Keep Dollars at Home.

The way to keep the boys and girls at home is to make home attractive to the boys and girls. The way to keep dollars at home is to make home attractive to the dollars. There is no other way.

Our local merchants should make their trade attractive. This means that they should play up their goods, just as a newspaper plays up a story. Goods can be played up in many ways. Advertising in the local paper and displaying in the store window are two good ways. Another good way is to make the store attractive inside and outside. ### DEMOCRATS MEET

Three Days' Session of National Club

League Begins Today. Washington, Dec. .- The turning of Democratic eyes loward the next presidential campaign is indicated by the meeting here today of all the Democratic organizations throughout the country, including the Bryan clubs which took part in the recent contest. The meeting, which will continue in session three days, was called by Colonel William C. Liller, chairman of the National League of Democratic Clubs.

Speaking of the purpose of the meeting, Colonel Liller declared that, while the Democratic party was naturally deeply disappointed by the result of the election, there was much hope of organizing between the present time and the next national campaign an effective oppositon to the party in power.

"The Democratic party is united, and defeat has not dampened the enthusiasm of Democrats throughout the country," he said. "The organization of clubs and the education in the fundamental principles of Democracy will be pushed everywhere from now on until 1912."

Trouble Ahead For Postal Banks. Washington, Dec. .- A thorny path confronts the postal savings bank bill in spite of the fact that its passage is advocated in the Republican national platform. At the close of the last session, when Senator Carter secured a special order to take up this measure on Dec. 14, it is said he had pledges of sufficient votes to pass the bill in the senate. The situation seems to have changed and at the present time it is extremely doubtful whether Senator Carter can rally anywhere near the required number. In fact it is stated that he will fall short a dozen votes on the Republican side.

OILING FARM TOOLS.

Good Care Will Make Them Last Twice as Long.

Why do we oil tools? For the simple reason that it doubles the life and easy working of them, says the Agricultural Gazette of New South Wales. This being so, what oil is the best to use, and what is the best way to apply it?

Without going chemically into the reason why, which would take too long to explain, it has been found, from centuries of experience, that, like the old carpenter's rule of "wood to wood, iron to iron," in working tools, the rule in oiling is "vegetable oil to vegetable matter, animal oil to animal matter, metal, or stone."

Of the vegetable oils, we have raw and boiled linseed, and castor, from plants; of the animal, neat or bullock's-foot (neat stood for bullock in Anglo-Saxon) oil, and fat or tallow. These are the only ones we need concern ourselves with; the others are of no use to us.

The raw linseed oil is pale yellow in color, and runs easily as water; if dark, yellow, and sticky it has been adulterated with cheap fish oil. The boiled oil is naturally much more sticky than the raw, a lot of the moisture having been driven off in the boiling; it is also darker in color than the raw. The difference in the use of these oils is that the raw oil penetrates the wood-fibers right through, and only forms a skin outside when these woodfibers can absorb no more of it. The boiled linseed, on the other hand, is too viscous or thick to enter the woodfibers, and makes a skin on the outside at once. Thus you can see that if you are oiling or painting wood for yourself (paint is only white or red lead mixed up with oil and coloring matter), use the best raw linseed; and, if doing a cheap job for someone else, use only the boiled; the wood will soon decay as the boiled oil skin wears off, but that is none of your

Now, to apply these oils: First, the linseed. For oiling handles of any sort, take an empty golden syrup or jam tin, see that it is perfectly clean and dry, and half fill it with your raw linseed; stand your handle or handles in it, and leave them there for a couple of days. Then reverse them in the pot, and, after a couple of days, take them out and give them a rub over with a raw linseed oily rag. They are now fit for use, will spring well. and stand the weather with impunity if the wood in them is any good at all.

You oil planes differently. For the tryer, jacks, and smoother, you first remove the wedge and iron. Now block the bottom of the opening (or "mouth") of the well, as carpenters call it, securely with putty, and pour raw linseed oil into it till almost full. Leave it for a couple of days, and you will find that the thirsty beech has drunk up all the oil. Fill her up again Cleveland Leader. and she will soak up about half of that. When you find she will drink no more, pour the rest back into the drum, remove the putty, clean, and a pretty plane, rub the sides and top well with the oil also; she will then look as if she had been polished. If likely to get rough treatment, give her sides and top a coat of boiled oil all over; this saves planes wonderfully. For other planes, leave them in a billy of oil for a couple of days, first removing the iron (the wedge wants oiling as well). Then rub them on the sides, and they are ready for over the parapet. While falling through do not oil at all, except the bed or a girder. The momentum of his body, wearing surface. You must keep on suddenly arrested, nearly wrenched his giving this a dab with raw linseed grip loose, but he was a strong man or, preferably neatsfoot, oil, or you and kept his hold. While swinging in will not be able to work it at all.

To apply neatsfoot: You must keep a little oil can full of it on the bench; when your oil stone will not bite, or your saws cling, or feel a bit rusty, flirt a few drops on as needed. Grease or fat will answer the same purpose, but is not as good.

"What in thunder is a whiffletit?" "Why, doesn't a fish sharp like you know what a whiffletit is? Common enough here. You see, the whiffletit lives only in circular lakes. You go out and find a circular lake and hire a boat. Then you row out all alone to the middle of the lake, about a mile or so, and anchor. Then you take an augur and bore a hole in the water and bait it by putting a piece of cheese on the edge of the hole. The whiffletit comes up to get the cheese, eats it, and it makes him swell up so that he can't back down the hole."

"Well," said the customer, breath-

He found after four years of bloody war that it did not pay.

But the best advice he could give the tobacco men was to act for themselves. The government had attempted to dissolve the Northern Securities Company; the same men still control the property. # Mr. Chas. I. Stewart.

Mr. Chas. I. Stewart made a convincing speech on the value of organization. He was listened to attentively and his remarks were cordially received and liberally applauded. He said in part:

"That organization is essential in every branch of industry is no longer a debatable proposition. The one conspicuous phase of our modern affairs is in the superior development of organization. The growth of all institutions that constitute civilization has been a constant enlargement of organization. "In this era of co-operative progress the farmer has been the one individual who has held out most stubborly against those forces constantly tending to revolutionize conditions. We are merely in the infancy of the industrial organization. Instead of reversing the wheels of progress and going back to the day of small things and primitive conditions we shall move forward for the higher development of organization and for its adjustment to the service of all classes of the people.

"No mon can doubt that the one thing needful to the complete independence of the producers of this region is that they stand firmly together. "Within a smaller scope the organization of the tobacco growers is scarcely less essential than the existence of the Government itself. The proposition that one man, acterful, seems so simple that even a child can grasp it."

"Come in," I said, unlocking the door and lighting up my room. "You can be as angry as you like in here, ad it won't hurt anything."

Mother Borton stormed a bit, and men sullenly walked in and took a chair. Silence fell on her as she crossed the threshold, but she glowercred on us with fierce eyes.

"It's quite an agreeable surprise to see you," I ventured as cheerfully as I could, as she made no move to speak. By followers looked awkward and uncomfortable

At the sound of my voice, Mother Borton's bent brows relaxed a little. "If you'd send these fellows out, I reckon we could talk a bit better," e said sourly.

"Certainly. Just wait in the hall, boys; and close the door." Porter and Barkhouse ambled out, and Mother Borton gave her chair a hitch that brought us face to face. "I reckon you don't think I come on

"And that's what I come to do," she said with a sparkle of pleasure in her eye. "I've come to warn ye."

"New dangers?" I inquired cheerfully. My prudence suggested that I had better omit any mention of the warning from Dicky Nahl.

"The same ones," said Mother Bortas shortly, "only more of 'em." "What is the latest plot?" I asked wavely, as I fancied that my light manner grated on my strange guest. "I don't know," she said slowly. "But you know something," argued.

I smiled sympathetically upon her, and she continued:

"I might as well tell ye the whole death of Henry Wilton, it must be by of it, though I reckon my throat's as Dike to be slit over it as not."

> Quince chips are a thick preserve of tender quinces and sugar syrup. A little invention may vary this by adding fruit that does not disturb the flavor. When cooked all alone the quince flavor is quite strong, and sweet apples seem created to borrow an equal flavor from the quince. A very few quince preserves with ice cream is a dainty dish, and a spoonful served with a mound of whipped cream and gelatin is delicious.

mittees on Organization and Constitution.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Dec. 8.-I a delegate to this Southern Congress ensuing year: of Commerce without a full realization of what it meant. At no time aid I expect to be called upon to take an active part in the proceedings.

But when I came in contact with the delegates from the more Southern States, I caught their spirit and became interested. Louisville, Owensboro, Henderson and other Kentucky cities are well represented.

I am a member of the Committee on Organization and of the Sub-committee on Constitution. It is proposod to make the organization permanent and I believe that it is the beinning of a new era for the South. an era of business.

Get Away From Old Ideas.

The sentiment is to get away from fossilised ideas and to join the procession for advanced civilization and commercial progress. This is a strictly business organization. Politicians may join in the march of progress but they must leave their politics behind.

The two principal addresses vesterday were made by Southern men that are members of President Roosevelt's Cabinet.
